Saturday, June 2, 2018

8:30- 4:00

Special Strides, Monroe NJ 08831

Cost: $175

Faculty: Susie Rehr PT HPCS and Jane Burrows PT DPT HPCS

Includes: snacks, lunch and all handouts

This course is designed for:

- ✦ the therapist who is thinking about taking the HPCS exam and wants to gauge the depth of their knowledge
- ✦ the therapist who is registered for the exam and wants to prepare in a structured manner
- ✦ the therapist who not only wants to pass the exam but wants to become a better clinician in the process

Course Description

As an educator I am a firm believer in the process of learning. The steps that we will go through together to review test taking strategies, history, horsemanship, movement science and theories, application of principles of hippotherapy, and program administration will be active and will change how and why you practice in the way that you do. We will examine critically many theories of treatment and demonstrate how they relate to the purposeful manipulation of equine movement.

Be prepared for active learning, group problem solving, and dynamic thought. Bring your questions and any study material you are already using. Important materials include: Level I and Level II treatment principles manuals, Horse Gaits, Balance and Movement by Susan E. Harris, and any resources you have already found that you would like to share.

Course Objectives

1. The attendee will recognize gaps in their current knowledge base as demonstrated by self-report and pre –course questionnaire inventory.
2. The attendee will be provided with study aids to use for exam review and in the future as personal reference materials.
3. The attendee will be able to utilize study aids provided to explain the relationship between equine movement and patient response
4. The attendee will integrate their past knowledge, present clinical skills and critical thinking to guide them on their path to clinical specialization.
5. The attendee will be able to gauge their readiness for the HPCS exam (especially if planning to take it in February).
